

Silly Dreams

Every night, I go to sleep. I never stay in bed.

I go to faraway places, but only in my head.

Just the other day, I had tea with the queen.

She was not very kind and really rather mean.

I can go to space, I will dance with the moon.

If I'm feeling hungry, I eat him with a spoon.

The stars are tasty, too, with sugar and cream.

I eat until I burst it is only a dream.

I will ride a lion with a pink nose and purple tail.

I will race against a blue whale.

The jungle has lions, tigers, and bears.

They all wear dresses and have feathers for hair.

Sometimes I fly, and sometimes I soar.

The grass is my sky, and the cloud's my floor.

I am graceful like the birds, I am faster than a rocket.

When I need to rest, I sleep in a cloud pocket.

Today when I dream, I will think about clowns.

They know how to chase away frowns.

I will play cards with fish, sleep the middle of the sea.

I will share a piece of cake with a bumble bee.
